

StoryDogs Examples: K–2

The Paper Bag Dragon

Read across each row: the two separate StoryDogs answers become the matching story line. Read down the right column to hear the whole story.

STORYDOGS • TWO ANSWERS	PIXAR RULE #4 + STORYDOGS
WHO? / HERO Character: Omar makes sock puppets. Struggle: He hates changing his plans.	Once upon a time there was Omar, a sock-puppet maker who hated changing his plans.
LIFE / WANT / WISH Life: He puts on puppet shows. Want: Make Grandma laugh with a dragon.	Every day, he put on shows. He wanted his sock dragon to make Grandma laugh.
UH-OH! Change: The cat takes his sock dragon. Decision: Omar goes to get it back.	One day the cat took his sock dragon, so Omar went to get it back.
TROUBLE Problem: The cat hides under the bed. Try: He pulls the blanket; the cat flees.	Because of that, he found the cat under the bed. He pulled the blanket, and the cat fled.
WORSE! / YIKES! Harder: The cat takes it under the sofa. At risk: Grandma arrives. No show!	Because of that, the cat hid under the sofa with the sock. Grandma arrived. No show!
CLIMAX / SHOWDOWN Challenge: Put on a show without the sock. Choice: Make a bag dragon; Grandma laughs.	Until finally Omar made a paper bag dragon instead. It made Grandma laugh.
CHANGE / AFTER! Learned: A new plan can be fun. End: He makes a whole bag dragon family.	Ever since then, Omar has enjoyed trying new plans. He made a whole bag dragon family.

"Ever since then" is a StoryDogs extension, not part of Pixar's original Rule #4.

Ask: How does chasing the cat make things worse? Omar's new plan shows that he can change his mind.

StoryDogs Examples: K–2

The Cake That Went for a Walk

Read across to match the two StoryDogs answers with their story line. Read down the right column for the whole story.

STORYDOGS • TWO ANSWERS	PIXAR RULE #4 + STORYDOGS
WHO? / HERO Character: Bea is a bear baker. Struggle: She hates asking for help.	Once upon a time there was Bea, a bear baker who hated asking for help.
LIFE / WANT / WISH Life: She bakes alone. Want: Make a giant cake for Mouse's picnic.	Every day, she baked alone and dreamed of making a giant cake for Mouse's picnic.
UH-OH! Change: Her cake cart rolls downhill. Decision: She runs after it.	One day her cake cart rolled downhill, so Bea ran after it.
TROUBLE Problem: The cart is too fast to catch. Try: Sprinkle flour; the wheels skid.	Because of that, she could not catch the cart. She sprinkled flour to slow it, but the wheels skidded.
WORSE! / YIKES! Harder: The cart heads for the duck pond. At risk: A soggy cake and no picnic treat.	Because of that, the cart headed for the duck pond. The picnic treat might become a soggy cake!
CLIMAX / SHOWDOWN Challenge: Ask for help before it falls. Choice: Call friends; they catch it in a blanket.	Until finally Bea asked for help. Her friends caught the cake in a blanket.
CHANGE / AFTER! Learned: Asking for help is useful. End: Friends help her bake "blanket cake."	Ever since then, Bea has known that help is useful. Her friends help her bake "blanket cake."

"Ever since then" is a StoryDogs extension, not part of Pixar's original Rule #4.

Ask: What does the flour cause? Calling for help saves the cake and changes how Bea works.

StoryDogs Examples: K–2

The Duck in the Quiet Corner

Read across to match the two StoryDogs answers with their story line. Read down the right column for the whole story.

STORYDOGS • TWO ANSWERS	PIXAR RULE #4 + STORYDOGS
WHO? / HERO Character: Pip is a rabbit librarian. Struggle: She forgets to listen.	Once upon a time there was Pip, a rabbit librarian who forgot to listen.
LIFE / WANT / WISH Life: She reads to the forest animals. Want: A quiet story time so everyone can hear.	Every day, she read to the forest animals. She wanted a quiet story time so everyone could hear.
UH-OH! Change: A duck arrives, quacking. Decision: Pip tries to quiet him.	One day a duck arrived, quacking. Pip tried to quiet him.
TROUBLE Problem: He quacks through the story. Try: Pip says "Shh!"; he quacks louder.	Because of that, Pip said "Shh!" when he quacked through the story. He quacked even louder.
WORSE! / YIKES! Harder: Now no one can hear Pip. At risk: The animals may miss the story.	Because of that, no one could hear Pip. The animals might miss the whole story.
CLIMAX / SHOWDOWN Challenge: Find out why he is quacking. Choice: Listen: "I can't see!" Move him closer.	Until finally Pip listened. "I can't see!" said the duck. She moved him closer, and he settled down.
CHANGE / AFTER! Learned: Listen before saying "Shh!" End: Pip checks that everyone can see.	Ever since then, Pip has listened before saying "Shh!" She checks that everyone can see.

"Ever since then" is a StoryDogs extension, not part of Pixar's original Rule #4.

Ask: Why does the duck quack louder? Listening helps Pip find a kind solution.