

A Finished StoryDogs Example

The Cake That Went for a Walk

Read across each row: the two separate StoryDogs answers become the matching story line. Read down the right column to hear the whole story.

STORYDOGS • TWO ANSWERS	PIXAR RULE #4 + STORYDOGS
WHO? / HERO Character: Bea is a bear baker. Struggle: She hates asking for help.	Once upon a time there was Bea, a bear baker who hated asking for help.
LIFE / WANT / WISH Life: She bakes alone. Want: Make a giant cake for Mouse's picnic.	Every day, she baked alone and dreamed of making a giant cake for Mouse's picnic.
UH-OH! Change: Her cake cart rolls downhill. Decision: She runs after it.	One day her cake cart rolled downhill, so Bea ran after it.
TROUBLE Problem: The cart is too fast to catch. Try: Sprinkle flour; the wheels skid.	Because of that, she could not catch the cart. She sprinkled flour to slow it, but the wheels skidded.
WORSE! / YIKES! Harder: The cart heads for the duck pond. At risk: A soggy cake and no picnic treat.	Because of that, the cart headed for the duck pond. The picnic treat might become a soggy cake!
CLIMAX / SHOWDOWN Challenge: Ask for help before it falls. Choice: Call friends; they catch it in a blanket.	Until finally Bea asked for help. Her friends caught the cake in a blanket.
CHANGE / AFTER! Learned: Asking for help is useful. End: Friends help her bake "blanket cake."	Ever since then, Bea has known that help is useful. Her friends help her bake "blanket cake."

"Ever since then" is a StoryDogs extension, not part of Pixar's original Rule #4.

Ask: What does the flour cause? Calling for help saves the cake and changes how Bea works.
